Follow the latest daily buzz with buzzFeed Daily Newsletter! Few things take you back as pop culture gems of your childhood. Whether it's the throwback songs you used to listen to constantly or the TV shows you used to watch religiously, these cultural timestamps come to form some of our earliest, fondest memories. For those who grew up in the 90s and early 2000s, Nickelodeon (in its pre-Nick days) held a special place in our hearts. Cool baby channel his competitor set, Nickelodeon always promised laughs, some useful rebellion, and lots of green slime. Nickelodeon Movies was founded in 1995, and a year later, we had Harriet spy as his inaugural release, quickly followed by a series of feel good movies guaranteed to transport you back to your younger years. If you feel like indulging in a healthy dose of nostalgia over the weekend, turn up to the Nickelodeon movie (or two, or three) and head back to the early aughts. Here are our picks for the best Nickelodeon movies of all time. 02 of 10 Years After his first film, Harriet Spy, the studio has released Good Burger, a comedy starring Kenan Thompson and Kel Mitchell. The film was based on a sketch of Good Burger from the comedy series Nickelodeon All That, of which the duo were two of the original actors. Thompson and Mitchell also starred in their own show, Kenan and Kel. According to The Hollywood Reporter, are you afraid of the dark? it is being made into a movie, and Paramount Players, a division of the Paramount Pictures film studio, has hired its writer Gary Dauberman to write the screenplay and produce the film. The Giphy Show is about the shared experience of telling stories - especially the scary ones, Dauberman, who also wrote Annabelle: The Creation, told THR. We'll celebrate that with this film and honor a darker, scarier tone of the show that was really groundbreaking for Nickelodeon at the time. I hope the midnight society approves. The anthology series premiered on Nickelodeon on Halloween 1990 (as appropriate) and was such a success that it aired for ten years until 2000. In each episode, a group of children who call themselves Midnight Society will gather around the campfire to tell scary stories about haunted houses, creepy clowns, vampires and other creepy creatures.
